

Rights for the mind

Focus on criminal justice

On September 23rd 2023, a symposium will take place on emerging neurotechnologies and (human) rights, with a focus on criminal justice. The symposium will include talks and responses by researchers from the University of Oxford, Roskilde University, University of Hamburg, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam and Utrecht University.

A limited number of spots are available, for those interested in attending please contact v.tesink@vu.nl

Programme

Chair: prof. Gerben Meynen (Utrecht University and Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam)

11:00 — Welcome & coffee/tea

11:30 — Talk by dr. Sebastian Jon Holmen (Roskilde University) and dr. Emma Dore-Horgan (Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam), response by Vera Tesink (Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam)

12:30 — Talk by dr. Lisa Forsberg (University of Oxford), response by Naomi van de Pol (Utrecht University)

13:30 — Lunch break

14:30 — Talk by prof. Thomas Douglas (University of Oxford), response by prof. Jesper Ryberg (Roskilde University)

15:30 — Coffee/tea break

16:00 — Talk by dr. Sjors Ligthart (Utrecht University and Tilburg University), response by dr. Christoph Bublitz (University of Hamburg)

17:00 — Drinks

Location: A'DAM toren, Amsterdam

This event is part of the project Law and Ethics of Neurotechnology in Criminal Justice (LENC) funded by NWO VI.C.201.067